

Rising country star Makayla Lynn bringing Nashville to Neptune

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – Halifax, NS – January 5, 2018 – Rising country star Makayla Lynn will be performing on stage at Neptune for a string of shows beginning January 18.

The 16-year-old from Elmsdale, Nova Scotia, will be performing on Neptune’s Scotiabank Stage for five shows from January 18 to 21 showcasing her talents as a songwriter and performer with special guest Smith Curry.

Lynn was recently awarded Country Recording of the Year by Music Nova Scotia for her most recent album On a Dare and a Prayer, which she also co-produced with Curry in Nashville at Reba McEntire’s Starstruck Studios. Last August, she was named by Rolling Stone magazine as one of the New Country Artists You Need to Know. In 2014, she two ECMA nominations for Rising Star of the Year and Country Album of the Year for her previous album Daydream.

Joining Lynn on stage at Neptune is Smith Curry, a Nashville musician who has recorded and performed with some of the biggest names in country music including Jason Aldean, Jerrod Niemann, Big & Rich and can be heard on Taylor Swift’s multi-million selling album Speak Now.

Sponsored by Scotiabank and Telus, Makayla Lynn Brings Nashville to Nova Scotia is on the Scotiabank Stage for five shows as part of Neptune’s Bonus Features series. The Bonus Features series also includes shows by Halifax-based band Port Cities, who are playing Fountain Hall February 16 and 17, and soprano Janice Isabel Jackson performing Echoes of Time: Sagas, Tales, and Myths on the Scotiabank Stage for three shows April 20 and 21.
